December Outing - Rutland Water

Saturday 6th December 2008

Meeting at Rutland Water's Egleton Nature Reserve car park at 0900. Target species will be winter waders and wildfowl.

When Rutland Water was created in 1975 a narrow strip of land, with an area of 500 acres (200 hectares) was set aside at the western end as a nature reserve. In addition, three large lagoons were created, with the facility to be able to control water levels. This ensures that there is suitable habitat for a wide variety of waders and wildfowl throughout the year.

Directions:

Take the A606 eastbound out of Oakham, turn right following the signs for Egleton Reserve.

To book a place please contact Andrew Cliff no later than Monday 1st December 2008
